2014 National Primary Care Symposium on Aging

Elaine S. Smith, MS, RD, Program Coordinator

Announcing the 2014 National Primary Care Symposium on Aging

“Cornerstones for Improving Senior Health Outcomes: Outreach, Enrollment and Community Partnerships”

The annual symposium provides an opportunity for health centers and senior advocates to exchange ideas and information on health topics related to improving the lives of millions of American seniors. Topics include health center management, quality control and improvement, disease management, outreach and enrollment, and collaborating with various community groups to achieve wellness for all seniors served at health center program sites.

We encourage health center program and look a-like administrators, clinicians, senior advocates, and others who are interested in providing better quality health care to the underserved senior population to attend.

To learn more or register for the 2014 National Primary Care Symposium on Aging CLICK HERE , or please visit www.healthandtheaging.org to learn more about the National Center for Health and the Aging.
